

Instructions for downloading podcasts

Manual downloading of the podcasts from Georg Fischer is a simple operation. However, if you wish to be informed whenever we have published a new podcast, we recommend that you subscribe to the podcast service, which is free of charge. Below we provide instructions for the two download options:

1. Downloading podcasts manually

Click on the title of the podcast you are interested in and store the podcast on the hard disk of your computer. To listen to the podcast, double click on the file you have downloaded.

2. Subscribing to podcasts

If you wish to subscribe to the podcasts, you require a special programme. The most widely used and simplest programme is "iTunes". Click on the address (URL) below to download this programme free of charge and install it on your computer <http://www.apple.com/chde/itunes/overview/>.

As soon as "iTunes" is installed, you can subscribe to our podcasts without any difficulty. Start up "iTunes" and select "Subscribe to podcast" in the "Expanded" menu. You now have to enter the address (URL) of the podcast you are interested in – it is listed under the title of the podcast, e.g. www.georgfischer.com/public/innovation/xml/georgfischer_en.xml. Now you will automatically receive the latest items from the "Research and development" page, and – if you wish – you can load it onto your MP3 player.